REMINDER: We will meet next week (February 11th) in the casino rather than in the hotel.

Today: Dr. Geoffrey Nagle

Director of Tulane Institute of Childhood Mental Health

Geoffrey A. Nagle, Ph.D., MPH, LCSW, serves as Associate Professor of Psychiatry and Neurology; Director, Tulane University Institute of Infant and Early Childhood Mental Health and as the State Coordinator, BrightStart - Louisiana's Early Childhood Comprehensive Systems Grant.

His primary interests are ensuring the necessary state supports are in place for young children and families by building a true early childhood system, designing a state early childhood budget, and documenting the economic impact of early care and education.

Dr. Nagle's research interests are in the economic benefits of investing in young children and prevention programs and how the results of research in early childhood influence public policy decisions.
